

Is your armor only external?... Vision of two warriors

August 30, 2019 - Vision of Udo and interpretation of Spirit of God Arael

Recently I had a vision of the heart. It is called... "The Parable of the Two Warriors."

The vision began... I saw two warriors climbing the mountain. The first warrior was very imposing, strong and well equipped. His sword and shield were beautifully polished and huge. His armor was richly decorated and very beautiful and his cloak was made of the finest silk. This was by far the most impressive warrior I have ever seen. Both armor and weapons were studded with holy scriptures and I realized that he was a Christian.

I called him Cosmo.

The second warrior was the exact opposite. He was small and very thin. His armor was simple and unadorned. His weapons were sheathed and tucked away, and he carried a gnarled walking stick. This warrior leaned massively on his staff, as if he needed it to walk. He was wrapped from head to toe in a penitential robe. Only his hands were visible. I realized that this warrior was also a Christian.

I called him Seth.

The two stood side by side. As strong and magnificent as Cosmo looked, Seth was just as modest and unassuming.

They climbed the mountain together to reach the top and defy the threatening dangers and pitfalls of the demons.

Cosmo walked with very pronounced and extended strides and a puffed out chest. Seth walked slowly, leaning heavily on his walking stick. Sometimes it appeared that he was crying and clutching the walking stick very tightly. Cosmo seemed very strong, while Seth seemed very weak.

Cosmo was soon far ahead of Seth, and he even mocked him for still being so far behind. In response, Seth began to clutch his walking stick even tighter. I realized that Seth was praying for Cosmo in those moments.

There were many steps up the mountain, and there were areas where the ground was leveled so that a traveler could rest for a while.

As Cosmo approached one of these waysides, he perceived a smell before him. It was the most sumptuous food and drink in all the land, and it lay spread out on a stone table, steaming hot and unattended. Cosmo turned aside to inspect the food. As he reached out to touch it partake, he hesitated a moment, but then took a large platter of it, and he sat down to eat it.

While he was eating, Seth stepped beside him. Seeing the sumptuous feast, he again grasped his walking stick and followed his way, now repeating in a whisper: "Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word of God."

Cosmo remained seated, and he ate and drank. And soon he was quite full. He got up again and followed the path up.

At that time I was aware that Spirit of God Arael was with me to observe this spectacle in my heart. So I asked him, "Can you explain in more detail what is going on here?"

(Arael) "The banquet was a trap of Satan. Cosmo's hesitation was the moment when the Holy Spirit advised him not to eat of it, but to go on. At that moment, ignoring Him, he fell and ate."

As Arael said this, I saw demons hovering around Cosmo, deeply inhaling the disgusting green fumes emanating from him, and they were seemingly refreshed by it.

I asked, "What is that they are inhaling from him?"

(Arael) "SIN. Getting involved and eating the food, the trap that Satan had laid out for him, this was a sin. The demons draw their energy and power from sin. Now look at Seth."

So I obeyed. When I focused on Seth, I saw that demons were also floating around him, but they were all very thin and emaciated. Delightful blue-golden fragrances surrounded Seth, and it seemed as if they were suffocating the demons, but at the same time these fragrances were going straight up to heaven.

(Arael) "This is the fragrant incense of a soul committed to holiness, obedience and humility. The demons cannot bear this fragrance, and they will soon flee. This incense ascends directly to heaven, and it is breathed in by the Lord - and all of heaven can smell it."

The demons actually fled from Seth and walked over to Cosmo, who now looked even more exhausted and sluggish. The demons surrounding him were now quite fat and large, and the skinny ones that had fled from Seth began to feed on him as well.

(Arael) "This is also one of the reasons why Satan and his demons provoke the children of men to sin. It is not only to harm people and drive a wedge between them and God to open the door for them to be sifted; it is also to recharge themselves through sin. It's a source of energy for them."

Cosmo didn't look good at all at this point, but he kept going. Seth was a good bit ahead of him now.

(Arael) "The war is coming."

A cloud of small, winged, mischievous creatures blocked the way of the two warriors. There must have been thousands of them. They were always chanting a mantra again... "Fear, Doubt, Disbelief" as they watched the warriors approach. I could see Seth stand still for a moment as some demons of fear flew past him; not too close because of the incense of virtue surrounding him, but a few ventured close. I realized that the two warriors could not see these creatures.

Then the demons of fear crowded around Cosmo, who became visibly frightened and grabbed his sword to swing it wildly, but he missed the demons completely. When he did land a hit, however, the blade did not even cut through the demon's exposed form. It was completely ineffective.

However, Seth grabbed his walking stick and raised it high. He said a simple prayer, and he ran into the swarm without fear. Suddenly his sword and shield flew out from under his cloak, and they struck, blocking the demons that came too close. Those who stood in his way he bound in the name of Jesus - and they were indeed bound.

Here I noticed that neither the sword nor the shield of Seth had a hilt, and yet they flew with such speed, power and accuracy, and they acted in battle as no human could! I asked Arael why this was so.

(Arael) "The handles for sword and shield are in his heart. When he began to lift up the name of the Lord and put Him between the enemy and himself, the Lord stepped down and sent His holy angels to fight for him."

Then I realized that the walking stick represented Christ. I could now see the inscription on Seth's walking stick, which read, "THE BRANCH". I could also see many angels around him beating the bound demons and dragging them away.

Soon the demons separated from Seth and no longer resisted him. Seth looked back and noticed that Cosmo was still under fierce attack. He was bitten and covered with excrement, which gradually ate through his armor like hot oil through butter. Seth, weeping for the wounded state of his companion, knelt down and prayed that Cosmo would be freed. Many angels came and pulled the demons far away from Cosmo.

(Arael) "He (Cosmo) had the scriptures engraved on his armor but not on his heart. He wielded his weapons weakly due to lack of virtue. And being under condemnation and fear, he used them with little conviction. He fought as the world does, and you cannot defeat Satan or his evil spirits with the flesh."

Then I heard these words, "Philosophy, psychology and the wisdom of the world."

(Arael) "Yes, they are powerless before Satan."
