

Jesus talks about child trafficking and prayers

Words from Jesus to Udo for all who have ears and hear

"You are aware of the terrible kidnapping, selling and trafficking of poor, innocent children, all over the world. Not only are they taken away from their parents and siblings, which is horrible enough in itself, but after they are sold, they are beaten in the worst possible way to make them submissive from the first moment for the horrible sexual abuse and painful rapes of their tender little bodies.

Some of you were also subjected to terrible abuse and neglect when you were young and you know how devastating it was for you, even into adulthood.

I ask you now. Please work with Me to save, comfort and heal these precious children and young adults who are daily victims of incredible horror and massive pain. They cry and ask day and night for someone to please help them.

They are constantly in a tremendous state of fear, as some are kept in chicken cages and others in cold basements, malnourished and dehydrated. They only see daylight when they are dragged out, roughly washed, put into nice clothes without underwear and then driven to hidden motels where one or more drunken customers are just waiting to abuse them repeatedly.

Sometimes six men at a time or even more, keep them for hours, burning, beating and raping them. Some of them do not survive these long periods of torture and abuse. To prevent them from screaming, these men put socks and handkerchiefs in their mouths. Since many of the children are already very weak and sick, they have difficulty breathing and may end up dying by suffocation.

If they survive, many soon succumb within days due to the complications of a ruptured spleen and internal bleeding.

Although all this was hard for you to hear and very hard for Me to describe to you, because of My Father's deep compassion and tenderness, We have seen their tears and heard their desperate pleas. Therefore, we have made a provision to distract them from "being tortured" by allowing souls to pray for them so that they can experience the tenderness of feeling loved and being held securely. In contrast to what is happening to them, they find comfort in this.

Those who have a heart to comfort these children have experienced this, and now I ask you to cooperate with Me and "spiritually adopt" as many of them as you can. If you give Me permission and your own free will to take them and knowingly hold them, tuck them in and carry them close to your heart - I will give your heart and soul to be able to receive all that I bring you, together with all the love and attention of a vigilant and sacrificial mother.

Am I not your faithful God? Do I say something and then not do it? I will be with them like the "dew-filled breeze" in the fiery furnace. And many will live by going out and proclaiming My wonderful love and salvation to the ends of the earth!

I have decreed all this - says The Lord - so that the souls of many may be saved!"
