

Jesus speaks about suffering, abuse of innocent children and release of graces

Words from Jesus to Udo for the bride and all who have ears to hear

"My bride, My beloved bride, how happy I am for the consolation you have given Me in My sufferings, for My suffering is very great when I consider the despicable acts committed against innocent and tender children. Children whom I have sent to this world with many wonderful gifts to transmit to your civilization.

See, this generation is very special, unique and gifted, very gifted. I gave them to you to lead you higher up in My Kingdom and to open your eyes. Satan, in his blind anger, has declared war on these specially endowed children, and he has fanned the flames of bloodlust in the spreading covens to make them throw away all misgivings and do to these abducted children what cannot be expressed in words.

These are the children who will lay their hands on the cornerstones of the hospitals, and all will be healed. These are the children who will look the demons in the eye and tell them to flee in My mighty name, something they will be more aware of than all generations before them. And this is precisely why this slaughter is going on with unprecedented frequency. It's not just about harvesting the adrenaline.

I will release their gifts at the time of their death on earth, and although they are with Me in heaven, they have left a mantle of anointings for those on earth who are ready to receive them. I ask you to pray for these children who are suffering so extremely - far more than anything you have seen before. I ask you to take over their sufferings, whatever they may be, for the sake of these little ones. You cannot understand at this moment what relief this will bring to My Divine Being.

Just come to Me in the hour of your trial and whisper: 'For our children, Lord.' Reserve cheerfully in your circumstances, knowing that you are doing a great work. I am not saying that you cannot ask for relief or healing...that will always be your privilege. But rather, I ask you to shoulder this cross for those souls, so that I can put an end to this abominable practice.

Dear ones, there are so many secrets connected to the blood bond that people have yet to understand. One of them is the exchange of pain and suffering for grace. The scripture that affirms this is Colossians 1:24.... "Now I rejoice in what I am suffering for you, and I fill up in my flesh what is still lacking in regard to Christ's afflictions, for the sake of his body, which is the church."

My afflictions have released powerful graces for you, and they have opened the gates of Heaven. When I asked you to imitate Me and be like Me, to deny yourselves, take up your cross and follow Me... when I said those words, I delivered to you the invitation that I have delivered again today. Suffer with Me for others so that I may release greater graces in their hearts, so that they may receive Me and keep Me as the permanent dweller who sits on the throne of their hearts. Yes, I paid the price to redeem you from death and the grave by tearing the veil that separated us.

But someone must continue to work with Me for the healing of souls - yours included. And this work demands self-denial and suffering. This is what Lent is also about; denying your flesh, even your intellect, to make room for the ever-deepening revelations of the Divine Life, forever climbing to the heights of My Kingdom, revealing the truth that has been hidden from you for so long. But now they are within reach as you get rid of the old propellant.

The more you deny the impulses of your flesh and accept My invitation to offer yourselves as a living sacrifice out of love for humanity, just as I have done for you, the more you will become like Me, My precious brides.

Will you do this for Me? If you do this, I promise you an ever deeper communion with Me in the depths of your heart, for your humility and charity draw Me inexorably closer to you."
